Authentic Liars

of Texas Have No Equal for This

Texas lecturer on wild tales from the woolly West paid a visit to Hope some years ago and coined a phrase which no Rotarian — that was the club to whom he spoke — will ever forget.

The lecturer, in referring to the forgotten authors of those unpublished tales which passed from mouth to mouth in the days of cowboys, gunmen, buffaloes and Apaches, called them "authentic liars."

"An 'authentic liar,'" he said, "is one whom you know is lying, and he knows that you know he is lying — and there you have the foundation stone for good solid tall tale of the Old Times."

And he might as well have included Hunting and Fishing in Modern Times. For I've just picked up an "authentic" from Louis Graves in the Nashville News.

Graves reports he got this from Forrest Wilson of Nashville, who got it while on a hunt with Bob Parsons, who lives near Athens, deep in the mountain fastness of northern Howard county.

Here's Parsons' story: "Late one evening I heard a noise down in the south pasture. Figured it was a deer so I got my rifle and sneaked down through the field. Saw the biggest buck in the hills. Took a good aim and let fly but that old buck never twitched an ear. Just stood there. Dog-gone if that wasn't my only bullet, but I had a 10-penny nail in my pocket so I slipped her into the rifle and let that buck have it.

Well, sir, he took a big jump and that nail hit his tail and pinned that buck to a big tree. Well, I grabbed my jockey knife figuring to cut old buck's throat and have me some venison but when I slung him, dog-gone if he didn't wiggle his head. That knife missed his throat but slashed him from the top to the bottom of his head and you know what? Blamed if that deer didn't jump out that hole and leave me standing there with his hide — yes, sir, there's the hide right over the mantle if you don't believe it."

C of C Board to Handle Vote Petition

The chamber of Commerce Board of Directors met last night at the Chamber office, following dinner at the Diamond Caft.

The board decided to have a plaque installed in the Chamber of Commerce office showing the names of all those individuals and industries that had contributed liberally to the remodeling of the office.

Because of these liberal donation of materials and money only a small amount was needed from the operating budget to complete the job. The board further moved to send the Chamber of Commerce Manager to the Southwestern Chamber of Commerce Institute at Dallas the week of July 9 through 15.

The manager had already been designated by the school as counselor to new students. It was the opinion that a week's refresher course would be beneficial to the town.

Plans were discussed for the purchase of a pine seedling planting machine by the Chamber of Commerce for use by any citizen in the county desiring to utilize idle acres in this way.

The Chamber's program for the promotion of a new county hospital was discussed at some length, indications being that progress to date in this respect was satisfactory.

Lytle Brown reported that at the request of the Chamber of Commerce a third reading of the proposed ordinance for the installation of parking meters had been read and that in order to now refer this matter to the voters a signed petition by a number of qualified voters was required.

The board undertook the responsibility for the securing of such voters, stating that they would be in the hands of the city clerk this week to assure an early election on this matter.

Whitten to Open Headquarters in Magnolia

Magnolia — (Special) — Vernon Whitten announced that he will open his campaign headquarters in Magnolia on June 15. The South Arkansas lumberman indicated that he will name a campaign manager probably next week and at the same time step up the tempo of his campaign to unseat Congressman Oren Harris for the 7th District Congressional Post.

Whitten and Harris went the same route in 1948 when their political fanfare attracted state and national attention. Whitten toured the district with Eddy Arnold and his hillbilly show while Harris paraded with an air attack via helicopter.

Top Nationalist Soong Decides to Quit Chiang

Taipei, June 9 — (AP) — T. V. Soong, millionaire brother of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, has quit the Kuomintang — China's Nationalist ruling party — rather than come to Formosa where his sister and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek have pledged to die.

The central executive committee nation today.

Soong, a former foreign minister of Nationalist China, once acting premier of the government, was last reported in New York with his brother-in-law, H. H. Kung, banker.

The Kuomintang said that Soong, one of the wealthiest men in the world, chose to resign rather than come to this Communist threatened island, refuge of all that Chang has left of his once populous nation.

Soong left China shortly before the government fled toanton from Nanking late in 1948.

At that time there was a move afoot to have him donate to the Nationalist cause a part of his fortune, reputedly scattered in French, English, North and South American, Indian, South African and waypoint banks.

So far as is publicly known here he ignored the requests and left Canton hurriedly for British Hong Kong and then Paris. He said he was ill and needed medical attention.

He soon dropped out of the limelight, which he held as foreign minister during the war years as Chiang's representative in Washington.

There have been recurrent rumors in Nationalist China for a long time that Chiang and Soong did not see eye to eye.

His suave, svelt sister Madame Chiang, educated in an American college, visited with him in New York when she went to the states to seek financial aid for tottering Nationalist China.

President Truman received her but was cold to any proposition to give Chang's government financial aid. He did agree to supply several millions of dollars to the Nationalist cause.

Soong, dressed in Western clothing and speaking faultless English, was last reported living on one of his eastern United States estates.

DON'T LIKE YELLOW

Pasadena, Calif., June 9 — (AP) — Some months ago the Sunny Slope Water Co. erected a 70-foot water tower in an exclusive residential area and painted it yellow.

A howl arose that eventually led to official action. The regional planning commission ordered the construction permit revoked. Finally, yesterday, the board of supervisors ordered the water tower torn down.

Some people just don't like yellow.

World Classes: Those Who Fish and Those Who Have to Listen to Those Who Fish

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — The world today is divided into two great classes — those who fish, and those who have to listen to those who fish.

I belong to the second class, and don't mind it at all. I'll give a big listen anytime to a broken-hearted fisherman's woes, and believe me this is the season of the big listen.

Everyone I know who can afford a rod and a bottle of sumpbottle seems to be on their way to the nearest creek or lake seeking what the sports pages call a "piscatorial prize." I have never been sure just what a piscatorial prize is — I never saw one handed out on a giveaway show. But apparently it is bigger than an ordinary fish.

Fishing is held by its followers as the most democratic sport known. The country lad who drops a wormbaited bent pin into the water is search of a catfish is supposed to be linked in mystical fraternity with the tycoon who pays $100 a day to go to sea after the leaping tuna.

Actually, fishing is ridden by a caste system as complicated as that in India. It is so complicated that an ordinary mortal, unwilling to give years of study to it, had better bive up fishing altogether, and that's what I did in 1937.

A friend and I were vacationing in Colorado. My thought was to drop a string into the brook that flowed by our fish house.

"Why, tourists fish there," he said, as if that were a form of pollution.

So we hiked over a 100,000-foot mountain. We found a roaring brook apparently never visited before except by grizzly bears, forest rangers, and a hungry colony of 2,753,815 mosquitoes that looked as

Coffee Trading Crackdown Is Caught

Washington, June 9 — (AP) — A senate committee today asked a justice department crackdown on speculative trading in coffee.

The request was made by the agricultural subcommittee which has been investigating the sharp rise in coffee prices in recent months.

The group recommended that the attorney general and his anti-trust attorneys take these actions:

1. Seek "injunctive relief" against futures contracts now used for speculative trading in coffee on the New York coffee and sugar exchange unless these contracts are promptly revised.

2. Bring a "civil suit under the stocks held in this country by Colombian and other foreign coffee interests are immediately disposed of in channels of trade.

3. "That the attorney general of the United States investigate the details of the purchase of coffee by Mr. George V. Robbins, Mae-Well house division, General Foods Corporation, from the national coffee department of Brazil in the year 1948 to determine if any federal laws have been violated."

4. That the justice department have a representative present "at all future meetings of the special commission on coffee of the inter-American economic and social council, or any similar groups that meet here on in which the United States participates."

Decapitation Investigation Continues

Batesville, June 9 — (AP) — A coroner's jury last night recommended continued investigation of the decapitation of a man by a freight locomotive here.

The body of Max Houston Taylor about 50, of Beebe, was found early yesterday.

Joseph Follett, 19, of Velvet Ridge (White county) who was arrested for questioning, testified at the coroner's inquest he struck the older and much heavier — man with a large rock when the latter attempted to force him into a homosexual act.

Taylor, who Follett said was very drunk, felt semi-conscious on the track. Follett was unable to move him and had gone for help when he was struck and killed, he said.

The coroner's jury reported that Taylor met his death as a result of being struck by the locomotive. Drunkenness and a fight with Follett were possible contributing causes, the report said.

Major Davis Is Dean of Air Show Pilots

Major Art Davis is called the Dean of All Air Show Pilots. Here's why. Art started flying back when there was no such thing as the C. A. A. As a matter of fact, he started flying way back when there were practically no airplanes, and those airplanes that were around were generally thought of as just another way to commit suicide.

But Art was a pioneer and his blood ran American Red. He met and accepted the challenge of the airplane. Was a veteran of World War One. Started barnstorming shortly after that way. Was the first American ever to capitalize on Sky-writing as an advertising medium. Art flew Air Shows and barnstormed with practically all the great names in aviation today and yesterday. He was personally acquainted with such great aerial stars as Frank Hawks, Jimmy Wedell, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

As a matter of fact, Art has flown over just about every country in the world and has amused the great total of better than 23,000 total flying hours in all types of aircraft and conditions. He was one of the first to join up during World War Two and his knowledge of the airplane and the men that fly them was of great service to this country.

Today, Art is still flying — and how! He shows most of the youngsters in the Air Show world a new trick or two every once in a while. Sunday, June 11, with the Legion Air Show Art will fly in two different acts. First, he will fly right wing in the Cloudbuster Trio, and next he will fly a solo exhibition that will emphasize the fact that Air show work has no room in it for the amateur or the dare-devil. He flies a beautiful Waco Taper-wing in a series of low-level acrobatics that includes a maneuver he originated — the clover leaf loop. Art is 53 years old — carries pilot's license No. 374. He'll thrill you Sunday June 11, at the Legion Air Show.

MORE SOFT DRINKS

Hollywood, June 9 — (AP) People are buying their soft drinks by the case and drinking them at home these days, says Alfred N. Steele, president of Pepsi-Cola Co., says television is responsible, people like to sit around their TV sets sipping a soft drink, he claims.

"You can't sit around all evening before a TV set with a glass of whisky in your hand," he reasons "You'd fall out of your chair."

John L. Wilson Succumbs at Age of 73

John L. Wilson aged 73, officeholder in Hemstead County for 20 years, died early today at his home. He was perhaps this county's best known political figure.

He taught school in Hemstead for 20 years and made his first race in 1918 when he was elected county clerk, serving four years. He served as Hemstead County Judge 8 years, from 1922 to 1930 and served as Hemstead Sheriff 4 years 1930-34. In 1934 he was elected state senator and served 4 years.

Survivors include his wife, and a son, John L. Wilson Jr. and a brother, Thomas J. Wilson, all of Hope.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel b the Rev. J. McHamilton. Interment will be in New Hope Cemetery, near Patmos.

Active pallbearers: Cleve Mayton, Cris Stuart, Blant Jones, Arnold Middlebrooks, Walter Rateliff and Clarence Baker.

Drug Addict Makes Police Kill Him

Harrison, June 9 — (AP) A combat veteran of World War Two went to the bedside of his aged and nearly blind father and said: "I'm going to take my gun and go up town and make the police kill me."

Shortly afterward Dr. M. G. Frailley, 81, heard shots. He got out of bed and started to dress. As he did a relative rushed in to tell him the son, Earl, 45, had been shot fatally it developed — in a gun fight with police.

Dr. Frailley told this story yesterday as police sought to learn why Earl shot and seriously wounded a teenaged youth and seemingly invited his own death at hands of officers Wednesday night.

Also said Dr. Frailley, this note from Earl was found in the family Bible:

"I aim to make them (apparently the police) kill me for I don't want to commit suicide, so I don't blame anybody but myself."

Police Chief Floyd Hudson said the younger Frailley entered a drug store not far from the family home, brandished the rifle and demanded morphine. He shot when apparently he thought the boy planned to rush him, then stood calmly in full view and opened fire on police as they drove up to arrest him. He was shot to death when they returned the fire.

Dr. Frailley said Earl had been addicted to narcotics, but had been dismissed as cured after hospital treatment. He had been drinking Wednesday, but had not been drinking previously for some time, the father said.

Dr. Frailley, who formerly lived at Mt. Judea, Newton county, said Earl participated in the Battle of Bulge when he served in the European theater in the war.

Declares Amerasia Leak Was in State Department; Hoover Says Reds Going Underground

New York, June 9 — (AP) — A former executive officer of the wartime office of strategic services charged today that a state department "leak" siphoned top secret documents into the offices of Amerasia magazine.

O. C. Doering, Jr., now a partner in a New York City law firm, issued a statement which he said was an answer "to criticism of OSS by an assistant attorney general regarding the Amerasia case."

"The discovery that Amerasia had obtained secret government papers was made through the alertness of a member of the OSS staff," Doering said.

He said the staff member, who was not named, read an article in the magazine which "set forth the contents of a secret government document" he had prepared.

The OSS raid on the defunct publication's office followed, Doering said, and five copies of the published secret document were recovered.

Saying that there was no indication that anyone with OSS was responsible for any breach of security, Doering added:

"On the contrary, they found clear indications that the principal cause of the leak was in the state department because in the office of Amerasia they saw hundreds of other confidential, secret, and top secret army, navy, state and other government documents bearing a stamp showing that they had been obtained from the state department."

Doering said Gen. William Donovan, director of the OSS, informed of the results of the investigation, roused Edward R. Stettinius — then secretary of state — out of bed and held a conference with the secretary "within the same hour."

Donovan also delivered to Stettinius all of the official documents recovered from the Amerasia office, Doering said.

Doering said the secretary thanked Donovan and promised to take necessary steps.

"From that time on OSS was never informed of any steps that were being taken or consulted in regard to them," Doering said.

East Part of Nation Getting Summer Touch

Chicago, June 9 — (AP) The eastern half of the country is getting all steamed up about summer with another day of warm and humid weather.

The hot belt covered the southern states and from the Mississippi valley and Great Lakes eastward to the Atlantic coast. Temperatures in the 80's and 90's were forecast for most of the area.

Unseasonably cool weather prevailed over the northern plains, the northern Rockies and the Pacific Northwest. The snow had ended in Montana. Rain fell in North Dakota and another belt of precipitation extended from Lake Superior south southwestward through Wisconsin and Iowa into Kansas.

Temperature contrast yesterday was the high of 104 at Presidio, Tex., and 32 at Lewiston, Mont.

Post-Marshall Plan Necessary Truman Warns

Columbia, Mo., June 9 — (AP) — President Truman declared today that post-Marshall plan abandonment of aid to Western Europe would be disastrous to peace.

In a world "full of dangers," he declared, the United States must continue its contributions to free nations lest "the Communists move in."

He made it clear in an address for graduation exercises of the University of Missouri that he is convinced "our vital national interest in a healthy world economy will not end when Marshall aid stops in 1952."

"You hear a lot of talk these days to the effect that the world is full of dangers, and that our civilization is heading straight for disaster," the President asserted.

"Of course, the world is full of dangers — the world has always been full of dangers, for people in every country and at every period of history."

But in spite of these dangers, he said, "our civilization need not wind up in disaster."

"It can go on to greater heights. Those who are frightened and dismayed do not have faith that men will use scientific advances for good ends. They see only the dangers in the world — not the opportunities."

Mr. Truman's speech was part of a program including his being awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree and a membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the scholarship society.

He was to return to St. Louis this afternoon for a reunion of the 35th division in which he served in the first world war.

Film Writers Start Serving Sentences

Washington, June 9 — (AP) — Movie Writers John Howard Lawson and Dalton Trumbo, who have been called Communists, were ordered today to start serving one-year sentences for contempt of Congress.

They also must pay $1,000 fines for refusing to tell the house subcommittee whether they ever were Communists.

There is a possibility that the sentences can be reduced within the next two months.

Lawson, who was described by the committee as "in direct charge of Communist activity" in Hollywood, was ordered committed to Federal Judge Edward M. Curren.

Judge David A. Pine handled the Trumbo case.

Lawson from the two writers argued the defendants out to be put on probation instead of being sent to jail or at least that the sentences be reduced substantially.

Curren said he had 60 days to act on their motions and would let them know his decision. Court officials said that once the judge had ordered Lawson to jail, he could not grant probation, but he could consider and grant a reduction in sentence.

Judge Pine denied motions both for probation and for reduction of sentence. He said the request for reduction could be renewed within 60 days.

In ordering Trumbo jailed, Judge Pine declared:

"As I recall the record of Mr. Trumbo's hearing before the committee, he displayed a willful flagrant and defiant attitude. He was evasive. He didn't say refusing on the sole ground, but to raise this constitutional question. His attitude was entirely different."

"The record of his trial closed no change in that attitude."

AFL Strike Cuts Milk Supply

Pittsburgh, June 9 — (AP) — Milk and dairy supplies were cut from five million western Pennsylvanians today by a strike of 3,250 AFL dairy workers.

Mayor David L. Lawrence's 11-hour attempt to halt the strike failed.

A four-hour meeting of union industry spokesmen ended shortly after 1 a. m. (EDT) than an hour after the strike line.

Another negotiating session set for 10 a. m. Lawrence called the strike a "calamity."

"The only hopeful thing is the union and industry have agreed to meet again. The strike affected the residents of Pittsburgh, the city's greatest source of milk."

Czechs Give Death Penalty to 4 Persons

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 9.—Czechoslovakia wound up its big treason trial last night, meting out death sentences to four persons and life imprisonment to four others on charges of spying for Western powers.

A state court convicted all 13 defendants at the conclusion of the eight-day trial. The remaining five received prison terms ranging from 15 to 25 years.

One of those condemned to death was a woman—Mrs. Milada Horakova—in parliament.

The prosecution described Mrs. Horakova as "the criminal organizer of the whole plot" and said she is and remains an incorrigible, an enemy to our regime.

The court found that all 13 accused had been in contact with foreign powers and charged that the defendants gave away state secrets and acted as spies. All had pleaded guilty or "basically guilty" to the charges.

They also were charged with organizing a fifth column with the aid of the embassies of several Western powers, including the United States.

The U. S. has repeatedly rejected charges that American diplomats have been involved in spying in Czechoslovakia.

Those sentenced to death, besides Mrs. Horakova, were Jan Buchal, Dr. Oldrich Pecl and Zavis Kalandra.

The prosecution had demanded the severest punishment for Buchal who was accused of sending out information about target for bombing.

Life sentences at hard labor were given to Frantisek Preucil, Josef Nestaval, Dr. Jiri Hejda and Antonie Kleinrova.

Would Peek at Diary of Forrestal

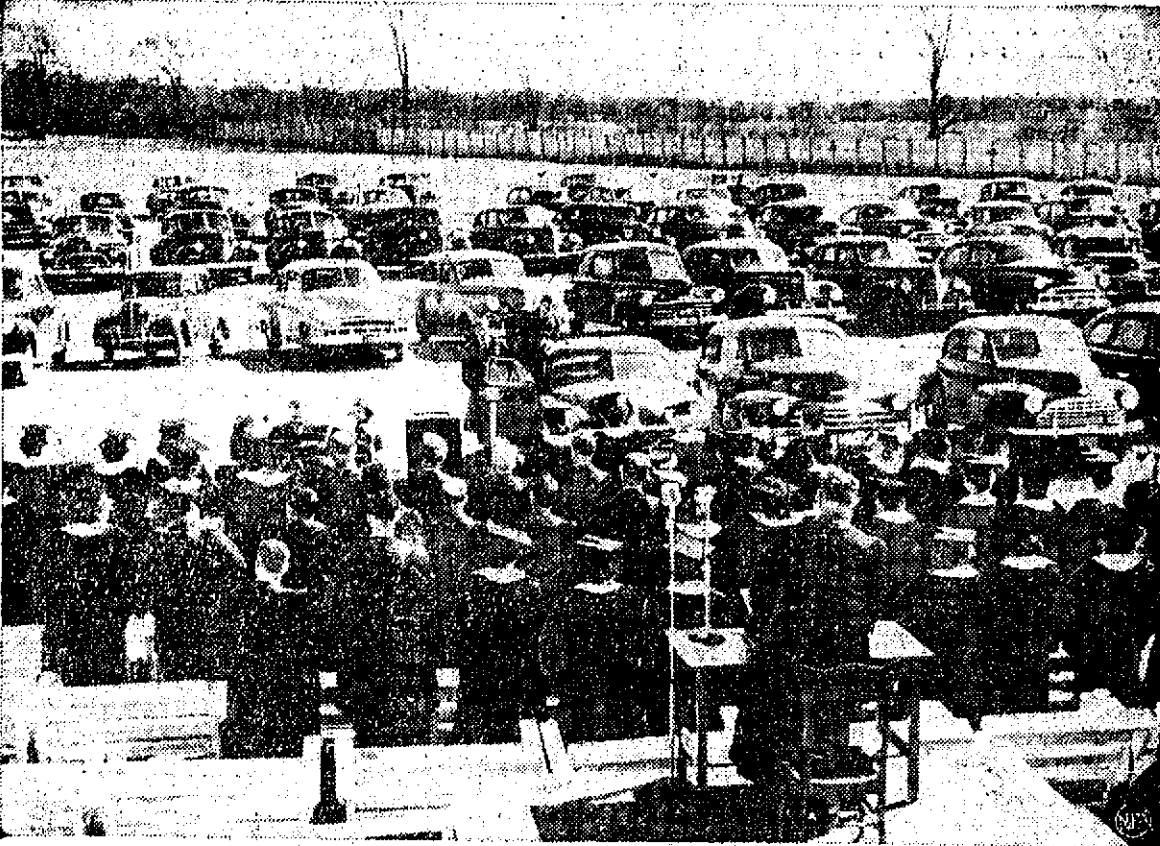

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) demanded today that senate investigators looking into the 1945 Amerasia case subpoena the diary of the late defense Secretary James Forrestal.

Knowland noted that Forrestal had been named as possibly being the high government official reported to have suggested that arrests in the case be delayed.

He told the senate that Forrestal, who died in a plunge from a tower window at the naval hospital near here last year, cannot speak for himself. But, he said, there is a diary in custody of the

He said that "in fairness to Forrestal, who had a patriotic record" in government, the investigating senate foreign relations subcommittee should immediately subpoena the diary.

Knowland said that if Forrestal gave up any secrets and possessions he must have felt that Soviet espionage was involved.

Knowland said that if Forrestal suggested any delay in the arrest, he must have felt that Soviet espionage was involved.

Knowland spoke out as authoritative sources in New York said a federal grand jury investigation of the Amerasia matter was started without sanction of government officials there or in Washington.

The informant who declined use of his name, was asked whether the action was that of a "runaway grand jury"—a grand jury which goes far beyond investigative limits outlined by prosecutors.

The informant replied: "I am happy about it—so draw your own inference."

The case involves the wartime discovery of secret government papers in the New York offices of Amerasia, a magazine no longer published.

Dick Wakefield made more than 200 hits for Detroit in 1943, to become one of 16 players ever to perform that feat in their first full season.

Find U. S. Plane Shot Itself Down

London, June 9.—(AP)—A United States B-29 bomber which fell in flames into the North Sea Wednesday with a loss of at least three lives shot itself down during gunnery practice, headquarters of the 3rd air division said today.

Bullets from the plane's 50-caliber machineguns struck the right outboard engine during a firing run on a gunnery range off the Norfolk coast, a spokesman said, setting the plane on fire.

Eleven crewmen were ordered to abandon the burning plane at low altitude. Four were rescued, three were recovered dead, and a search is continuing for the other four.

The air force spokesman said failure of normal safety devices with which the big plane was equipped permitted the gun fire from its own turret to strike the outboard engine.

"It was just one of those things that happen," he said. "All normal precautions were taken."

Normally automatic controls cut the fire of the B-29's machines should they be turned toward any part of the aircraft.

The heavy bomber, in Britain from its Fairfield, Calif., base on a training mission, crashed flaming into the North Sea after the accident.

The spokesman said details of the accident were described by one of the survivors, Captain Henry J. Walsh of Alton, Ill., commander of the lost bomber.

Walsh, one of the first two saved from the North Sea, told interviewers at the Southwold base of the 3rd air division how shells from one of the B-29's turrets tore into the right outboard engine cowl.

Fire followed immediately, and the command to abandon plane was given by Walsh as the blaze spread. The bomber was then at an altitude of only 500 feet.

Yonkers Tab Without Wire Service

Yonkers, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—All telephone service has been cut off from a tabloid newspaper here after police alleged the wires were being used for gambling purposes.

The Yonkers Daily Times said in this morning's edition that "we have done nothing illegal."

The newspaper said the New York Telephone company's action in cutting off the service yesterday was "illegal and contrary to law."

The published message to readers said "immediate steps are being taken to compel them (the telephone company) to restore all services."

Continued publication of a complete newspaper was promised by the Times.

Patrick F. O'Hara said last night that the newspaper's 12 trunk lines were dedicated by the company at his request.

The city official said Sheriff Fred Rusco and district attorney George Fanelli of Westchester county for some time "have been discussing the telephone situation at the Yonkers Daily Times, and I catered with their approval."

O'Hara said "the telephone were ordered discontinued because the police allege the wires were used in aiding and abetting gambling."

He said, in answer to a question apparently could afford to take the risk "a lot better than some of us taxpayers."

The examiner, Charles B. Lewis, acknowledged that MKOOR, WHOM he identified as a friend of his for 40 years, had a part in convincing him of the worth of the gadget.

Fulbright said it seemed to "amount to this; that Moore persuaded you that this was a good deal."

Lewis said no that he had "just put all the facts together" and reached his own conclusions. "You don't think your friendship for Mr. Moore influenced you," asked the senator.

"No, sir," Lewis replied. "I know it didn't. But I had more confidence in it after talking to Mr. Moore. I'll say that."

Fulbright, noting that various RFC advisory committees and the manager of the lending agency's Jacksonville office had recommended against the loan told Lewis:

"The fact is that nobody was for this loan but you, directors" replied Lewis.

A $400,000 loan to the Ribbonwriter Corporation of America at Danville, Fla., was approved by the directors but only $300,000 was actually advanced to the company.

Voters Are Good to the Incumbents

Washington, June 9.—(AP) Voters in the 13 state primaries held to date have been unusually easy on the "ins."

Candidates have already been chosen for 173 house seats and not a single incumbent has tasted defeat.

And of 11 senate seats involved in 10 states, only two sitting members — Pepper (D-Ia) and Gurney (R-SD) — have lost out, both to incumbent representatives.

A third, Senator Graham (D-NC), faces a runoff June 24.

What does it mean, one may jump to the conclusion that it augurs well for the party in power in November; that apparent satisfaction with the present legislative personnel indicates the Democrats will easily retain control of both branches.

There's a difference of opinion about this.

While keeping an open mind, Victor Hunt Harding, executive secretary of the house democratic campaign committee, told a reporter it certainly indicates one of two things — there is no serious dissatisfaction inside party ranks with incumbents in either party, or the people are indifferent.

In either event, he feels it points to Democratic retention of control of both houses in the next congress, despite the traditional pull away from the party in power in nonpresidential election years.

Rep. Martin (Mass), house Republican floor leader, agrees that the results to date show the voter seem satisfied with their representatives.

But he said in an interview this does not necessarily mean the present lineup of 259 Democrats and 170 Republicans in the house and 54 Democrats and 42 Republicans in the senate will be any where near the same next January.

Probers Look Into Narcotics Traffic

Washington, June 9.—Senate crime investigators today are compiling a master file of every known and suspected bigtime operator in the underworld of crime, gambling and narcotics traffic.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said a special senate committee is building up a cross-indexed file which gradually is piecing together a picture of interlocking crime operations.

It is believed to be the first list of this kind ever charted by a government group.

This report came with a disclosure from FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover that national crime is on the increase — particularly among youths.

The senate appropriations committee released confidential testimony in which Hoover said there has been a large increase in local and national crime.

The FBI chief praised local law enforcement agencies for their cooperation and said they were doing a "very good job" considering the handicaps under which they operate.

But he said: "Our crime picture today reflects a much more serious problem than during the pre-war years." He added that youths under 21 are responsible for 43.9 per cent of all auto thefts, 38.5 per cent of all burglaries, 30.4 per cent of the rapes and a fourth of all robberies and larcenies. These figures were based on the first nine months of 1949.

The names on the senate committee's master list have come from the U. S. narcotics bureau, an inquiry into bigtime gambling in Florida, from city and state crime commissions, and other sources.

Billie Franks and Delwin Ross Are Wed Sunday

In an impressive and beautiful ceremony Sunday, June 4, at 2:30 p.m. at Macedonia Baptist church, near Magnolia Arkansas, Miss Billie Dolores Franks became the bride of Delwin Thomas Ross. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Franks and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ross of Hope. Elder Robert Arthur read the double ring ceremony before a large group of relatives and friends.

Huckleberry and fern trees formed the background for three candelabra burning white tapers. Baskets of white gladioli marked the place of ceremony and the center aisle was decorated by gladioli tied with white tulle.

Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Billie Jo Valtball who played "Indian Love Call," "Claire de Lune" and "The Rosary" before the ceremony. She accompanied George Shaw who sang, "Always and I Love You Truly." Traditional wedding marches were used and "Liebestraum" was played softly during the exchange of vows.

Miss Betty Ballard and Miss Ruth Dodson, gowning in ballerina length pastel organdy, lighted the tapers. They were wristlets of Esther Reid daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length white Swiss organdy dress over white satin. The dress was fashioned with a full skirt and tight bodice with eyelid embroidery outlining the neck and the full skirt was trimmed with scallops of the eyelid design. She wore eyelid mitts and her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a satin cap covered with eyelid. Her only jewelry was a lavalier which belongs to her mother. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and a sash.

Miss Jeanette Crain, wearing a ballerina length pastel pink organdy dress, was maid of honor. She wore a matching picture hat and mits and carried a bouquet of Esther Reid daisies.

Charles Kennedy of Hope attended Mr. Ross as best man. Don Franks, brother of the bride, and Harrison Ross, brother of the bridegroom, served as ushers. Mrs. Franks, mother of the bride, wore navy sheer with matching accessories. Her flowers were pink carnations and stephanotis. Mrs. Ross, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gray faille dress with black accessories. Her flowers were white carnations.

A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franks. The bride's table, centered with a beautiful tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom, was covered with cerulean. Other decorations were fern, sweet peas and a crystal punch bowl.

Miss Virginia Hardy served the cake and Miss Elizabeth Ann Nipper presided at the punch bowl. Miss Maxine Whitlow registered the guests.

After a visit in Hot Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Ross will be at home at 615 South Pine, Hope until fall when Mr. Ross will resume his studies at Henderson State Teachers college.

For travel the bride wore a pink linen suit with brown and white accessories and pinned the orchid from her bouquet of her shoulder. Mrs. Ross is a graduate of Magnolia high school and Magnolia A & M college. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hope High school and Magnolia A & M college.

DOROTHY MIX
Bad Housekeeper

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to a young woman who is pretty, intelligent, amiable, affectionate, and a man could want in an except that she is the world's housekeeper. I bought a home when we married. It is clean or orderly. There is a place where you can sit do comfort. Even the laundry sent out. I provide ample money keep a good table but there is anything fit to eat. My frankly tells me that she is domestic work. That cooking her to tears, and, besides, I haven't any turn for it and never learn how to do it.

The situation is particularly on me because I am a doctor and had looked forward having a home that was like one in which I was brought up.

My wife and I have got at to the breaking point. We get continually because when I home tired and hungry from work of an evening I am infuriated over the dinner she puts before me and sheovee dinner which she puts before, and she considers me gross material because I put stren such creature comforts as a room, fresh towels in the bath and decent food. What do you think of our problem?

Answer: It is a pity that you were so busy asking her, "Do love me?" you neglected to love if she knew how to cook and to ascertain her vision of a woman's place in the home.

Should Investigate Qualifications It is a queer thing that practically never try to get a lion a girl's domestic qualifications before they lead her to the altar for on more than on last anything else depends the pinness of their marriage. For image can't be a success unless wife knows how to keep house more than it can be a success more than it can be a success if the husband can't make the day to support it. It is just as necessary that the wife should be able to fry the bacon as it is for the husband too bring it home.

No man can prosper if his wife is wasteful and extravagant and throws half he makes in the bag can. No man can be happy and competent to do his best unless he is properly fed. It can't avail a man anything even if his wife to love him unless she respects her affection in making him comfortable.

The way for you to settle our problem is either to hire a competent housekeeper and put in the management of your house in her hands, or else break up your home and go and live in a hotel where you can get good food and good service. Perhaps your life's other charms and graces offset her lack of domesticity. But don't try to go on as you are, quarrel over her inefficiency. It will kill your love and send you to the divorce court.

Dear Miss Dix: We are a young couple who have been married a year and a half. Get along fine together. Everything all right except that I can't get my hand up in the mornings. He gets plenty of sleep. I'm not lazy. But he's just terrible to get up in the mornings. I have let him be late for work several times, but I can't take a chance of letting him lose his job. He gulps a hurried breakfast and is off. Never a chance to fix the furnace. I'm so tired of this and we scrap over it to the extent that he hardly talks to me for several days. I don't like to have every day begin with a quarrel. What shall I do about it?

Answer: Quit making an issue of it. Just accept the fact that

Rent Control Troublesome to Senate

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Senator Cain (R-Wash.), bitter foe of rent controls, blocked today an attempt to set a date for a senate vote on a bill extending controls beyond June 30.

Then he launched into an all out filibuster against the measure. Cain's action touched off a bitter debate in which senate Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois, a vocal Republican of trying to keep the senate from acting on the bill.

"We're going to vote on a rent control bill in the United States senate if we have to stay here until Christmas," Lucas stormed.

The senate bill would extend rent ceilings for six months and let communities keep them six months longer if they vote to do so.

Lucas asked for an agreement to farm and adjust hardships—passed congress yesterday.

President Truman is expected to sign the bill since it was recommended by the agriculture department.

Final congressional action came when the senate approved the measure by voice vote. I previously had passed the house.

Production and planting of rice was greatly expanded in this country operating this year for the first time since 1943.

The present rice acreage allotment program for states and counties is based upon plantings for the history, where production was greatly expanded at heavy costs, received reductions from 1949 acreage of more than one-half.

The new measure would set up a reserve of 7,065 acres in addition to the 1950 rice allotment of 1,583, 112 acres to handle new farms and hardship cases. After 1950 one percent of the national allotment would be set aside for this purpose.

It also would eliminate controls from nonirrigated rice on a farm that does not exceed three acres, and on rice produced outside the continental United States.

Congress was told that the three acre nonirrigated exemption would apply in South Carolina and Florida where rice now is produced on small tracts, chiefly for home consumption.

The exemption for offshore territories affects Puerto Rico and Hawaii, but the agriculture department said neither produces enough rice to meet local demands.

vote on the bill Monday afternoon. Cain countered with a proposal that the senate vote then on a motion to send the measure back to the senate banking committee. Lucas said he would not accept Cain's proposal. Cain replied that he may make the motion any time during the afternoon, at a night session which Lucas planned, or at a session tomorrow.

Washington, June 9 (AP)—A grim tug-of-war over extending federal rent controls threatened the senate with a marathon session today.

The determined delaying tactics of Senator Cain (R-Wash.) brought a promise from Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois, a vocal Republican of trying to keep the senate from acting on the bill.

That could mean a session lasting until late tonight and even all day Saturday.

Cain, a long-time opponent of rent controls, told reporter he was ready and willing to speak at length today tonight, Saturday and even Monday.

His aim is to delay senate action until the house has voted on a similar control bill—apparently in the hope that the measure will have tougher going in the house.

Cain said some other senators—he did not name them—will rally to his cause. Senator Saltonstall commented yesterday that several Republicans want to speak on the issue.

Fair Enough

Donald Richberg was an experimental New Dealer who had ways wanted to throw an egg and an electric fan but on a scale. An ostrich egg into the mum. He is a wise man and he scraping yolk off his rig, for he one of the authors of the N. R. U.
that mad venture in fas-under the holy auspices of First Dispensation which gave her novel ideas and pious dent and died the death of a chicken in the test case.

Mr. Richberg still takes pride in the fact that he has composed the National Railways act, which is cited proof the millions of times a year by sons who don't know what talking about as a perfect examplification of cooperation.

Between the plug hats and bill caps of the choo-choos, a fallacy is as clearly held and defended as any popular hallucination from the beginning to the date of these presents a depressing example of mass distasteful to intelligent truth.

Mr. Richberg runs around ing speeches, which do no harm his Washington law practice in and get to play him next. . .
and in one such he referred to Man's inspired passel of fine fused irrelevances as "the mo-of fair deal socialism." Forget-the national socialism of N. R. A. Mr. Richberg is again

socialism now and profess-a "genuine liberal" in disagreement with practically all of other liberals, who disagree turn, each with all the others.

Only a year ago one of our ble-wit pseudo Republican dailies down ast pagel the roster professing liberals for a que-definition of the species and as many answers, none of whi-took less than 24 hours. The and is, of course, that a liberal fellow who says "keep your hands off me and your snoot my business," but none of there as for the section qualifying
On the occasion of this oration
Mr. Richberg said: "As the original author of the Railway Labor act and as chief counsel for the and as chief counsel for the organizations for many years, I of course I am proud of what accomplished.

"For once in history, nationwide management and labor coun-agreed upon a labor relations law and for 20 years or more could it as the means of maintaining peaceful relations which have no parallel."

The error here is that Richberg confused "labor" with the bosses of the unions, who were the only persons consulted on the working man's side of the equation.
Having been a lawyer for unions, dealing with the grand dragons of the terror, which is composed of Mr. Richberg, smart as he is should have known that this relationship brought together the employers of a largely bankrupt industry and the parasite union-"Labor" did not mean an "in-labor relations law" Mr. Richberg said. "Labor" was not consulted.
And thereafter, the railway officials, weary, with two strikes them in every argument and fearful of dirty cartoons depicting them many of them couldn't even pay their bar bills, simply gave in. We had railway "labor" peace because the unions always got the breaks.

In one historic case, an engineer who got drunk on the job, twice was not even furloughed or laid off, much less fired, but just allowed to sit around the speak-easy lushing on full pay because the management couldn't win.

Mr. Richberg and all the phar-sees on that side resolutely ignore the truth that unions persecute a working people in every conflict with the prelate and often compel the management to fire malcontents with the effrontery to run for office or compalin of exploitation.

Aggravated by the railway unions,
I present an approach on the let-terhead of C. A. Fisher, judge of the Erie County Court, Buffalo, N. Y., and related correspondence.

Judge Fisher wrote to the Grand International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on behalf of a poor widow whose husband had loaned $100 to the union to bail out of financial troubles occasioned by the mismanagement of unioneers of the type whom Mr. Richberg regards as qualified "spokesmen" for labor. These loans were made under moral duress close to compulsion. Judge Fisher's letter to the Grand International Brotherhood, Cleveland, Ohio, read:

"Amelia Parmetier is the widow of E. J. Parmetier, a former royal member of the brotherhood.
When the brotherhood was apparently in a distressed condition on April 30, 1930, Mr. Parmetier advanced $100 to the loyalty fund.
Brother Parmetier passed away a few years ago and of course, left this certificate to his widow in a distressed condition. She is now in the same condition that the brotherhood apparently was in in 1930 and both ways. She has read with great interest of the enormous sums that have been set aside by the brotherhood for political work. She assumes that the brotherhood would not be straining their discretion very much if they redeemed this certificate, with interest at four per cent."

Judge Fisher received a typed reply signed with a rubber stamp of a "Johnston, grand chief ad-visee. It reads: "The only condition under which either the principal or

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Ardmore, Pa., June 9 (AP)—Harry Todd was looking for a driver that was "just right"—an unceasing search among golf pros— and finally Joe Wolf came up with one.

Joe is a factory man who looks after such demands from golfers who represent his company and he has 16 different drivers before him. "That's it," Skip Alexander said. "That's the one."

Little Rock, June 9 (AP)—An adding machine might be a big help at Riverdale Country club, where the Arkansas state golf tournament took on a two-ring circus complex today.

Scores over the long and tough bar 72 course soared high as 27 pros and amateurs stroked their way through the first half of the 36-hole open division yesterday.
It remained to be seen whether a better job of mastering the course, a 6,000-yard layout with hard grass greens, could be done today, as the open was completed and qualifying rounds were posted for the amateur meet.

The only open contender to better par in the first round was Hot Springs' Pete Fleming, and his 70 lead going into today's windup.

Nearest to Fleming, who birdied two holes and purred all the others, was Andy Cusick of North Little Rock at 72.

Gene Keeney of Texarkana shot a workmanlike 74 for third place and tops among the amateurs. Not many of the states better sin-gulars elected to try for open honors, but they were on hand in droves for the amateur qualifying.

An example of the course's toughness was the eight-over-par 80 turned in by Johnny Whitten.
As pro at the club, he is more familiar with the course than any of the others and had been considered a favorite.

The defending champion, Don Murphy of Texarkana, was five strokes off the pace with a 75.
Three others were tied with him at that figure.

Chattanooga defeated Mobile 31 in the only Southern association game Thursday night and here is a partial account of how little the Lookouts worked.

They got only two hits. Twelve Lookouts got on base free of charge through walks. Shortstop Guillermo Miranda walked five times to threaten the Southern walking record of seven set by against New Orleans on July 29, 1944.

Chattanooga depended on sloppy fielding by Mobile far more than batting power. Mobile left 11 runners on base which relieved Chattanooga of going to the trouble of making putouts.

And to crown it all Chattanooga's final two runs were walked in by Mobile's Jim Romana.

The defeat was the ninth in succession for the Bears. And during that string of misery Mobile has managed to score an average of only 2.44 runs per game.

The Bears slipped into sixth place with the defeat and Friday night they depend on Marion Fri-cane to get them up again.

League leading Atlanta takes on

Technicolor Western Epic Opens Sunday at the Saenger Theater

'The Law of the Land' Is a Colt .45

They saw it was the Colt .45 that brought law and order to the wild west a hundred years or so ago at a time when it seemed that lawlessness might rule that part of America forever.

The story of the introduction of this weapon to the law enforcement officers of the West as well as of its early day misuse in the hands of desperadoes, is the story of "Colt .45," opening at the Saenger theatre on Sunday. Filmed in color by Technicolor, the tremendous Warner Bros. western epic stars Randolph Scott, Ruth Roman, with Zachary Scott.

Called "the equalizer," the Colt .45 was a powerful weapon in any hands big enough to hold it reasonably steady. It was as revolutionary in its way and at the time, as the Flintlock was almost a century before or as the "Peace-maker" promised to be in the future.

Armed with two Colt .45s a good shot could hold off a dozen men with lesser arms. One pair of such guns is reliably reported to have had much influence on the results of the Mexican War which preceded the story of "Colt .45" only a few years.

Then, as now, the principal problem presented by any new weapon is the struggle to keep it out of the hands of the wrong element, Indians and bandits in the Colt days, heading the list of Western badmen. Star Randolph Scott, one of the few motion picture stars big enough not to be overshadowed by the big guns in his hands, is the man who introduces the Colt .45 to the law officers of the West in this story. The film features Lloyd Bridges, Chief Thundercloud and Ian MacDonald.

McCarthy in Another Blast at Acheson

Milwaukee, June 9 (P)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) loosed a bitter new blast at Secretary of State Dean Acheson today and demanded again that Acheson be fired immediately.

Referring to him as "the Red Dean of fashion," McCarthy declared that Acheson had "worked on the team of world strategy to create a Red China and a Red Poland" and "should be removed from the high command of our foreign policy at once."

McCarthy spoke out in a speech prepared as the keynote address of the Wisconsin Republican state convention.

Acheson, he said, is at the forefront of what he called the Truman administration's policy of "war-mongering abroad while it permits the enemy within our gates to operate with impunity."

"You can condemn communism in general terms," the Wisconsin senator declared, "in the Acheson manner with a large handkerchief, a silk glove and a Harvard accent, if you please."

"But you can't fight Communists in that fashion. I know of no one single reason why Communists should be handled with kid gloves. They don't use kid gloves or powderpuffs on us."

McCarthy devoted a large part of his speech in criticism of a $90,000,000 American loan to Communist Poland in 1946, at a time when Acheson's former law firm was handling Poland's business in this country. Acheson was then under secretary of state.

"Fifty million of that ninety million went to equip and arm the Communist army and the dreaded U. B.—the Communist secret police just then being set up in Poland," McCarthy said.

"It was Mr. Acheson who placed the guns, the whips, the black-snakes and the clubs in the hands of those Communists. It was Mr. Acheson who furnished them with bullets to keep a Christian population under Soviet discipline. It was Mr. Acheson who helped put uniforms on the masters of prostrate Poland."

Randolph Scott and Ruth Roman share the action and romance of "Colt .45." Warner Bros. dashing Technicolor adventure moving into the Saenger theatre on Sunday. Zachary Scott and Lloyd Bridges are featured in the cast.

'Equal' Is a Meaningful Word to the South

(Editors note: This is the third of four stories on this week's Supreme court decisions involving Negroes and their rights.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 9 (P)—What is equal? Finding the answer to that may not be easy for the southern states.

Still, they'll have to find the answer in order to give the Negroes higher education opportunities equal to those of whites in their states.

The U. S. Supreme court this week made it unmistakably clear that Negroes must get such equality.

If the southern states produce what they say is the answer, the Supreme court is always in the position of having final say on whether it is or not. Negroes can always appeal to the court for decision.

A Texas Negro wanted to get into the University of Texas law school which was for whites only. He was turned down because he was a Negro.

He fought this in the courts. Finally Texas set up a law school for Negroes. But this particular Negro said "no," he still wanted in at the U. of Texas law school for whites.

Because, he said, the Negro school was inferior to the white one and therefore he was being deprived of an education equal to that which the white students were getting.

The Supreme court—which repeatedly has ruled in the field of education and other things that Negroes must get equal treatment with whites—agreed with the Negro in this case.

First, the Supreme court said the Texas Negro law school lacked the same size faculty, big library, variety of courses and other advantages of the white school.

Then the court added something which can't be measured in buildings and books and money. It said: "What is more important, the U. of Texas school possesses to a far greater degree those qualities which are incapable of objective measurement but which make for greatness in a law school."

"Such qualities, to name but a few, include reputation of the faculty, experience of the administration, position and influence of the alumni, standing the community, traditions and prestige."

So the court apparently has set up two tests for equality between white and Negro schools; the facilities, and the traditions and prestige.

Only time and a great many distinguished people can give any school traditions and prestige. A new school, naturally, doesn't have either when it's starting out.

If the court is going to consider any new Negro school unequal to its white counterpart because it lacks the latter's "traditions and prestige," then how can a new Negro school ever be considered equal to an old-established white school of high standing?

That's a question for the south to consider before it starts spending money on new schools for Negroes, since setting up separate schools for Negroes in higher education is a costly project.

In recent years southerners have been moving toward the idea of setting up large regional schools where white southerners consider equal education.

But there's a possibility the Supreme court would not accept that idea, if a Negro tried to test it by bringing suit to the high court. This is why:

In 1938 the University of Missouri law school refused to let in a Negro, because he was a Negro, but offered to pay his tuition in a school in some other state.

The court ruled out that idea this way: a state doesn't have to supply any of its residents with legal education but, if it does for the whites, as Missouri was doing, it must do the same for its Negro citizens.

And the court added: if a state gives privileges — but separately to whites and Negroes — those privileges must be equal. And, the court said, telling a Negro to go to another state is denying him equal rights in his own state.

For its reasoning, the court invoked the 14th amendment which guarantees all citizens equal protection of the laws. The court said a state can give equal protection of its laws only when, or where, its laws apply, which is in its own state alone.

TV THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS—Television images will be cast on a large movie screen, using this giant spherical mirror designed by American Optical Co., Southbridge, Mass. The girl holds a small mirror of the size used in home television sets, comparing it with the big, 90-pound mirror at top. The big mirror will receive ordinary television broadcasts, greatly enlarge the image and project it on a 15-by-20-foot theater screen.

Capt. Carey Is Ladd's Late Thriller

An exciting drama of intrigue and adventure in post-war Italy, Paramount's "Captain Carey, U. S. A.," opens next Sunday at the Rialto theatre. Alan Ladd and Wanda Hendrix head the picture's imposing cast which includes top character actors Francis Lederer and Joseph Calleia.

An action-cramped suspense thriller, according to advance reports, "Captain Carey, U. S. A.," is the story of an ex-OSS officer who returns to Italy to find the man who betrayed him and his underground co-workers, including Miss Hendrix to the Germans.

As the relentless pursuer of a traitor, Ladd is said to turn in a blistering portrayal that for dramatic impact matches anything he has ever done. And Miss Hendrix, too, won special mention from preview critics for a brilliant performance as a beautiful countess who shared the dangers of the chase.

Based on the best-selling novel "After Midnight," by Martha Allbrand, "Captain Carey, U. S. A.," is Ladd's twentieth picture since he became a star, and his first with a foreign locale since "Sailor." The soft-spoken actor's most recent films include "Chicago Deadline," "The Great Gatsby" and "Beyond Glory."

Although she's appeared in relatively few pictures, Miss Hendrix is one of Hollywood's most sought after leading ladies. Recently she starred in such successes as "Prince of Foxes," "Miss Tatlock's Millions" and "Ride the Pink Horse."

A new high in screen thrills, according to previewers, "Captain Carey, U. S. A.," was directed by Mitchell Leisen and produced by Richard Maibaum. Robert Thoren wrote the screen play.

Including in the supporting cast of the film are Celia Lovsky, Angela Clarke, Jane Nigh, Frank Puglia and Luis Alberni. The song "Mona Lisa" was composed by Jay Livingston and Ray Evans.

Quadruple Amputee Is Married

Jacksonville, Fla., June 9 (P)—Quadruple amputee Jimmy Wilson, a radiant bride at his side, drove his auto toward a Canadian honeymoon today.

The sergeant who lost his hands and feet in a wartime bomber crash was wed last night to Dorothy Mortenson his classroom sweetheart.

After a brief reception they headed for Canada with Wilson at the wheel. Afterward, they will go to Boulder, Colo., where the bride groom will enter the University of Colorado law college.

Florida's climate is a bit too warm for a man with artificial limbs, he says.

The twilight ceremony was a gay affair with no overtones of a tragedy that crippled Wilson six years ago when his bomber smashed into a Vermont mountain side.

Wilson walked to the altar with steady tread. They stood close as the Rev. W. R. Stevenson, congressional minister, spoke the ritual.

After both spoke "I will" in firm voices, Wilson with his silvered hookhand received the ring from his best man and deftly placed it on the finger of his 23-year-old bride. Then they kissed.

It was the end of an uphill fight for Wilson. After his new limbs were fitted, he learned to write in longhand, use a typewriter, comb his hair, shave, drive a car. At Jacksonville Junior college he met Miss Mortenson who encouraged him to see it through for a university diploma. He got it Monday—a BA degree in pre-law from the University of Florida.

For the bride it was the end of a dream which began when she and Wilson met. She vowed then she would overcome all handicaps.

After leaving school, she became an insurance company secretary and a part time television model. She indicated she has no aspirations for a career; she only wants to see Jimmy become one of the best lawyers in the west.

Allied Position Strengthened by New Boundary Agreement Between Poland, East Germany

By CLARKE BEACH
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
For DeWitt MacKenzie

The Western Allies position in Germany has been strengthened by the new boundary agreement between the Soviet dominated government of Poland and East Germany.

The region has been in German hands for centuries, although the Poles held some of it in the middle ages. The Poles were given administration of the area after the war, when Russia took a slice of territory from eastern Poland.

About 5,000,000 Poles were removed from that territory and resettled in the new German section called by the Poles "the recovered lands." Since then almost 9,000,000 Germans have been expelled from their homes east of the Oder and Neisse and have been thrown on the charity of occupied Germany.

One good guess as to Russia's motives is that she has concluded she will never win the allegiance of the Germans and that now is the time to solidify her position in Poland.

Poland, strategically situated as a buffer between Russia and the West, is being built up as an industrial nation and as the chief producer of steel in Eastern Europe.

Russia is sending her own scarce industrial equipment to build up industries in Poland. The index of industrial production in Poland rose from 10 in 1938 to 180 in 1949. Between 1939 and 1948 Poland made greater gains in the process of industrialization than any other country in Eastern Europe.

The possession of the so called "recovered lands," which are largely industrialized, contributed to this progress.

Poland thus is becoming extremely valuable to the Soviet Union. This fact, and the new

L. R. Police Looking for 'Queen Elizabeth'

Little Rock, June 9 (P)—Little Rock police today were looking for a woman who told LaFayette hotel employees here that she was "Queen Elizabeth" and then allegedly set fire to an unoccupied room.

LaFayette Manager Joe Matthews said the woman told employees she was going to "set fire to the place" shortly before the blaze was noticed. He estimated damage at $250.

During the war, Jack Russell star end of the New York football Yanks, was nearly swept off the deck of a troopship during the storm. But a fellow soldier grabbed him by the shirt and saved him.
